“ William Charles Walker was a close friend of my oldest brother, Nathan "Tricky" Jones Jr. They along with Floyd Wyatt formed a trio that grew up together and were close friends for over 70 plus years. Although I was 15 years younger, my mind is full of stories of their exploits. These three talented young black kids that grew up together in Texarkana Arkansas in the forties and early fifties took me under their wing and taught me so much. I have so many precious memories of them telling me stories about life in the early 40 and 50's. I always enjoyed seeing them together. The last time I saw William Charles was at Floyd Wyatt's home going ceremony. That was the last time that the three of them were in the same place. Due to illness my "Big Brother" will not be able to attend his service. So on behalf of my family, I want to express my deepest sympathy to the Walker family and all who cared for William Charles.
